A well-balanced stick makes a big difference, especially for young players. Lightweight handling aids in stick control, quick passes, and confidently carrying the puck without the stick feeling sluggish. The balanced design is well-suited for young players who are working on their technique, shot feel, and timing and who rely on consistent performance across multiple shifts. With the W03 and W28 curves and the 30, 40, and 50 flex options, the stick can be effectively adapted to playing style and strength level.

Key factors in selecting the right stick are the appropriate stiffness and the correct blade orientation—left or right.
