Protection size-1: SR

The WARRIOR LX 40 SR is body protection designed for everyday hockey, when hard shots regularly hit the upper body during practice and games. The multi-layered padding works in conjunction with plastic inserts to noticeably absorb direct impacts, while the new straps keep the protector securely in place and are easy to adjust.

- Product Type: Body Protector

A well-fitting body protector is crucial, especially for club players who regularly play indoors and want to rely on their equipment. With the WARRIOR LX 40 SR, the focus is not only on cushioning but also on ease of use before the game. The straps can be quickly adjusted and provide support so that the protective gear stays in place even during movement. This makes it particularly appealing for players looking for a straightforward, functional solution without unnecessary complexity.

To ensure the right fit, the SR model should be selected based on the player's height.
