Protection size-1: SR

WARRIOR ALPHA LITE SR is a shoulder and upper-body protector designed for everyday hockey play, with a focus on mobility and targeted cushioning. Especially during regular practice and games, it's crucial to have protection in key areas without unnecessarily restricting movement while skating, passing, or in one-on-one situations.

- Technology: compression-molded IMPAX foam
- Protection areas: reinforced impact zones with floating spine and sternum pads
- Construction: removable abdominal pad
- Closure: Lay Flat Straps, lie flat against the body
- Ventilation: ventilated inner shell for a lightweight, cooler feel
- Freedom of Movement: Padding remains flexible and form-fitting
- Age group: SR
- Sizes: XS, S, M, L

The protective construction is designed for areas that are particularly prone to impact in hockey. This makes this model ideal for club players who participate in multiple ice sessions per week and prefer gear without unnecessary bulk. The floating pads support mobility in the shoulder and upper body areas, while the flat-fitting straps sit neatly under the jersey and do not interfere with movement. The ventilated inner shell also helps ensure that the protection remains comfortable even during intense training sessions.

The appropriate Senior (SR) sizes—ranging from XS to L—help ensure the protection fits snugly against the body and the pads stay in place where they're intended.
