The tapered construction promotes a precise feel for the stick, which is particularly noticeable indoors where space is tight, changes of direction are quick, and clean first contact is essential. A composite stick like the WARRIOR ENDE is therefore particularly appealing to club players seeking a harmonious balance between control and modern design. The 6-inch shaft is well-suited to a technical playing style featuring clean ball handling and controlled passes in tight spaces.

When making your selection, it's worth taking a quick look at the appropriate stick size within your age and height range.
