Protection size-1: JR

WARRIOR LX 30 JR is a body protector for juniors designed for high-intensity training and game situations in hockey. Especially at the youth level, it's important to have equipment that combines protection in key areas with a free, natural range of motion. This is exactly where this model excels, with strategically placed foam pads and a breathable inner construction.

- Technology: specially molded EVA Impax foam pads with a textured surface
- Protection Areas: Additional padding in key impact zones

Product information

- Closure: new straps for easy handling and a secure fit
- Ventilation: Ventilates System with an air-permeable, breathable inner jacket
- Inner lining: Mesh lining, quick-drying and breathable
- Mobility: Designed for full range of motion during play
- Agegroup: JR
- Size: S, M, or L

In everyday hockey, this is especially noticeable when there's barely any time between tight one-on-one battles, changes of direction, and brief breaks. The padding is placed where extra cushioning is needed, while the inner jacket doesn't unnecessarily restrict movement. The breathable mesh enhances comfort, especially during intense practice sessions indoors or on the ice. The easy-to-use straps are also a practical feature for parents and clubs in everyday use.

When selecting a size, it's worth checking the appropriate junior size to ensure that protection and freedom of movement go hand in hand.
