Product information

Protection size-1: JR

WARRIOR ALPHA LT JR is a shoulder protector designed for young ice hockey players who need noticeable protection during practice and games, but want the overall weight to remain comfortably light. Especially for juniors in their day-to-day club activities, it's important to have gear that fits well, doesn't restrict movement, and stays breathable even during intense play.

- Product Type: Shoulder pads for ice hockey
- Agegroup: JR
- Technology: compression-molded EVA-IMPAX foam
- Protection Areas: Strategically placed protection in key zones, including shoulder caps and chest area
- Fit: Lay-Flat strap system for a snug fit
- Ventilation: Dynamic Ventilation
- Mobility: lightweight construction with good range of motion
- Sizes: S, M, L

The design is tailored to the demands of regular ice hockey play: close physical contact, quick changes of direction, and frequent stick and upper-body movements. The IMPAX foam used comes from a higher-end line and is positioned where impacts and contact occur most frequently. At the same time, the flat strap system keeps the protector close to the body, minimizing slippage while skating and during one-on-one battles. The ventilation system ensures greater comfort as practice sessions become longer and more intense.

To ensure effective protection, choose a size that allows the shoulder pads to fit securely while maintaining full range of motion in the arms.
