Pants like these are especially practical for club players and teams during practice because they fit well without much effort and cause little hassle when moving around the locker room, warming up, and changing gear. The zippers at the leg openings make it easier to pull the pants over your shoes, and the closable side pockets keep small items closer to your body. Thanks to their functional, clean design, the black version is well-suited for regular use in a team setting.

When choosing a size, it's worth considering the desired fit—whether you prefer the pants to be snug or slightly looser.
