Regular club training, in particular, calls for clothing that moves with you and remains uncomplicated in use. That's exactly where these shorts come in: for players and teams looking for clear, functional training gear without relying on a flashy look. Made in SR, this model is designed for adults and older youth players within the corresponding size range. Whether for warm-ups, off-ice skill drills, or casual sessions in the rink, training shorts are a staple that get used more often in hockey than you might think.

When choosing a pair, the most important factor is finding the right size that allows for the desired range of motion.
