Especially in everyday club play, the right skate fit makes a big difference. A regular width provides a solid foundation so that the foot sits securely in the boot and power can be transferred to the ice in a controlled manner during push-offs, turns, and quick changes of direction. This is especially important for youth and club players who train regularly and need a balanced combination of support, freedom of movement, and a direct feel for the ice.

When choosing, the most important factors are the correct skate size 5.5 and the appropriate width (R), so that the boot fits snugly and comfortably during everyday hockey play.
