- Storage space: designed for extensive equipment and accessories

For club players and coaches in particular, it's not just what you bring with you that matters in everyday life, but also how neatly everything is stowed away in the locker room or on the way to the gym. A bag of this size is ideal for regular practice sessions, where, in addition to clothing, you often need to bring small items, spare gear, or personal equipment. This makes it equally appealing for teams that prefer a clear, straightforward design for transport.

If you're looking for a compact bag for just a few items, you should carefully consider its 60-liter capacity.
