Hockey training often involves clear procedures: signaling the start of drills, pausing for corrections, or maintaining structure in larger groups. A whistle like this is designed precisely for that purpose. The lanyard is especially practical for coaches, teachers, and clubs where the whistle is used regularly during longer training sessions. The black design has a simple, understated look and fits seamlessly into daily training routines.

If you’re looking for a whistle for school, a club, or regular coaching sessions, this is a functional model that’s ready to use right out of the box.
