The HOWIES INSULATING TAPE CAN is a practical storage solution for insulating tape in everyday hockey life. Whether in the locker room, while traveling, or in the equipment room, a can helps keep rolls neatly stored and makes them easier to grab when preparing sticks, gear, or making small repairs.

- Product Type: Can for storing electrical tape
- Applications: Hockey, practice, game day, and equipment organization
- Benefits: Protects the tape from getting loose in a bag
- Handling: Compact and easy to carry with your gear
- Suitable for: Players, coaches, and teams with regular equipment needs

Product information

In hockey, tape is often a standard part of the equipment, but it can quickly get lost in bags among tools, tape, and other accessories. This is exactly where a duct tape container helps keep equipment organized. For club players and coaches who don't want to spend time searching for it before practice or right before a game, this is noticeably helpful in everyday use. Even in a team setting, where multiple rolls are in circulation, this keeps the supplies more organized and better grouped together.

Before purchasing, it's worth taking a quick look at the tape size you use to ensure the can fits the roll you have.
