- Product Type: Junior Floorball Stick
- Model: R AIR JR SB
- Blade orientation: right
- Hardness: soft
- Playing feel: softer feedback when receiving and controlling the ball
- IntendedUse: Training and games for junior players
- Color: neon orange

A soft blade is often appreciated in youth tennis because it makes ball contact slightly more forgiving and prevents technical movements from feeling unnecessarily harsh. This can be noticeably more comfortable during indoor training, especially for young players who are working on their timing and control. EXEL's AIR model is therefore designed for anyone who prioritizes easy-to-understand handling over particularly direct, firm feedback.

An important factor in selecting a racket is the blade orientation: "right" means the forehand is played on the right side.
