Product information

The Fischer CT 950 GRIP INT is a hockey stick designed for ambitious youth and club players who are looking for a direct feel for the puck and their shots during practice and games. As the top model in the CT series, this stick is designed to be lighter and more stable, catering to players who rely on precise feedback during fast-paced play.

- Product Type: Ice hockey stick with grip
- Technology: Increased torsional stiffness for greater accuracy and a more direct response
- Blade: Dual Foam Core Blade for a sensitive feel for the puck and faster release
- Curvature: 92
- Stiffness: 65
- Seiter: Right
- Size: INT
- Color: black

Especially in the INT size with a 65 hardness rating, this stick is well-suited for players who are making a serious transition from the junior ranks to regular team practice. The lighter yet stable overall feel aids in quick passes, direct shots, and controlled first touches. The torsionally stiffer construction provides stability in the shaft, while the blade with Dual Foam Core guides the puck noticeably cleanly and releases faster on shots.

Key factors to consider when selecting a stick are the correct blade orientation, the INT size, and the 92 bend, to ensure the stick matches your playing style.
