Especially when playing frequently, it's not just the feel of the game that matters, but also how consistently a shaft performs over time. This is precisely where this model's strength lies: The composite construction is designed for players who want to stand out from basic entry-level models without immediately moving into the uncompromising competitive realm. This makes the shaft particularly appealing to adults in the ambitious recreational and club scenes who value solid, reliable equipment.

The 85 SR flex should match your own shooting style and your usual stick setup.
