- Protection Areas: Additional padding at the temples, back of the head, and forehead
- Adjustment: 270° AdaptFit for easy and precise adjustment

Especially for club players who use the same gear several times a week, it's not just protection that matters, but also a comfortable fit throughout the entire game. This is where the combination of a lightweight shell, an adjustable 270° system, and well-designed ventilation really shines. The helmet remains comfortable even during intense sessions, and the replaceable pads are a practical advantage in everyday hockey life when equipment is used and maintained regularly.

For a comfortable fit, the size L helmet in the senior version should match the shape of your head and provide the desired level of comfort.
