Product information

Protection size-1: JR

Body protection size: L

The CCM TACKS XF 80 JR shoulder pads in black and size L are designed for young players in the junior division who are looking for a low profile, noticeable comfort, and solid protection during practice and games. The design combines lightweight PE foam with compression-molded zones to ensure the gear fits snugly against the body and doesn't add unnecessary bulk on the ice.

- Product Type: Ice hockey shoulder pads
- Construction: two-layer PE foam with compression-molded front and back sections
- Shoulder caps: JDP injection-molded caps
- Fit: low-profile design with length adjustment
- Lining: Sublimated comfort lining
- Ventilation: Comfort lining with improved air circulation
- Protection areas: shoulders, chest, and back
- Size: JR, L

For young club players in particular, it's important to have gear that doesn't restrict movement. The slim design helps maintain a snug fit under the jersey, while the two-layer foam construction and contoured panels provide protection for key areas. The comfort lining is comfortable to wear and, together with the ventilation, helps you stay cool during longer training sessions. The adjustable length makes it easy to tailor the shoulder pads to fit your own equipment perfectly.

For a proper fit, junior size L should correspond to the rider's height and other protective gear.
