The WARRIOR LX 30 SR is a body protector designed for hockey, intended for players who wear size S and available in black. Protection is especially important during regular practice, where checks, stick contact, and intense game situations frequently occur. This is exactly where this model excels, featuring strategically placed foam pads and a flexible, breathable inner construction.

Product information

- Technology: specially molded EVA Impax foam pads
- Protection areas: additional padding in key impact zones
- Surface: unique surface texture of the padding
- Closure: new straps, easy to use and secure
- Ventilation: air-permeable, breathable, and quick-drying inner jacket
- Inner lining: Mesh lining, breathable and quick-drying
- Mobility: Designed for full range of motion
- Size: S / SR

In everyday hockey play, this design really shines when you don't want your gear to restrict your movement. The EVA Impax padding is strategically placed in areas where extra protection is most needed, without making your movements feel unnecessarily cumbersome. At the same time, the Ventilatat System helps ensure that the body protector remains comfortable to wear even during intense sessions and dries faster on the inside. This is particularly appealing to club players who train several times a week and are looking for gear that seamlessly combines protection, support, and mobility.

For a proper fit, the combination of body protector size S and pad size SR should match the rest of your gear and your body shape.
