provides support where hits and contact are most common.

- Protection Area: Forearms and biceps

- Closure: New straps for easy use and a secure fit
- Inner lining: Yellow Strike lining, quick-drying and easy to care for
- Size: JR, body protection size L

The combination of double-density foam and additional inserts provides noticeably more substance than a very basic design. This is especially important for youth players who train regularly on the ice and don't want their protective gear to stay damp for long after each session. The Yellow Strike inner lining makes everyday life in the locker room, gym bag, and club activities easier because it dries faster and keeps the gear clean. Added to this are the redesigned straps, which stabilize the fit and make putting on the gear a breeze.

When selecting gear, in addition to the junior model, the most important factor is choosing the correct body protector size (L) to ensure a snug fit on the forearm and upper arm.
