The WARRIOR QR6 PRO NAVY JR is a junior hockey glove designed for young players who need a flexible wrist and direct stick contact on the ice, as well as reliable protection during daily practice and games. Especially in junior hockey, a balanced combination of mobility and protection quickly makes a difference. The flexible cuff supports clean stick handling and shots without unnecessarily restricting the wrist. At the same time, the multi-layered construction provides better protection for the hand in high-impact areas. The palm is designed to provide a good feel for the stick, which is important for passing, receiving, and controlling the puck during daily on-ice practice.

When choosing junior gloves, it's worth checking the length to ensure the finger area and wrist fit properly.
