Especially in regular club play, it's important to have gear that works without much thought. A classically designed groin guard like this model is aimed at adults or older youth players in the SR range who are looking for a clear size option and don't want to experiment when changing in the locker room or dressing room. The combination of SR protective size and body protector size S helps ensure the equipment fits seamlessly within your existing protective gear set.

When making your selection, it's worth taking a quick look at your other protective gear to ensure that size S fits neatly into your overall setup.
