In hockey, especially on the catching side, it's not just about protection—it's also about how natural your movements feel and how controlled your catches are or how you deflect the ball outward. A senior-style catching glove like this is therefore particularly well-suited for club players and ambitious goalies who are looking for reliable coordination within their goalie gear as they move between training and matches. The Fullright version is a key feature here because it directly accommodates the goalie's preferred playing side.

Important when selecting: The Fullright and SR models should match your existing goalie gear and your usual playing side.
