In navy with team graphics on the front, this model serves as a lasting reminder of the current draft class.

This design makes sense especially for fans who see a cap not just as an accessory, but as part of their hockey culture. The structured shape looks a bit more distinctive than a simple casual cap, while the flexible fit can be more comfortable as the day goes on. This makes the model a great choice for attending games, everyday club life, or times when a new chapter in the team's history is particularly in the spotlight.

Thanks to the "one size fits most" design, the cap is suitable for many common head shapes, though the fit may vary depending on individual comfort preferences.
