In hockey, a hoodie is often more than just an extra layer. Before practice, while traveling with the team, or during breaks between sessions, it should fit comfortably and not feel restrictive. The dropped shoulders help keep upper-body movement more natural. The hood provides a little extra protection on cool days, while side pockets keep small items quickly within reach. Added to this is a high cotton content, which gives the design a comfortable, everyday feel.

ASICS partners with Better Cotton for cotton cultivation; sourcing is managed through a mass offset system.
