Product information

- Model: SILOPAD 22294

An ankle guard like this model is especially appreciated when skates or equipment repeatedly rub or press against a small area. For club players and youth players with a lot of ice time, it's often not just the actual equipment that matters, but also the details that make longer sessions more comfortable. The protector focuses on the ankle area and complements the existing setup where additional padding is needed.

When selecting a model, it's worth checking the space available inside your skate or at the relevant spot on your gear to ensure the ankle guard fits snugly and doesn't add bulk.
