The BLUE SPORTS STICK HANDLING TRAINING PUCK (GREEN) is designed for off-ice sessions when you want to practice stick handling away from the ice. The BG-P10 training puck in green is primarily aimed at youth and club players who want to work on their hand-eye coordination and accurately replicate movement patterns even outside of team practice.

- Product Type: Off-Ice Stick Handling Training Puck
- IntendedUse: Technique training off the ice
- Training Focus: Stick control, puck feel, and hand-eye coordination
- Model: BG-P10
- Color: green
- Sport: Ice hockey

Regular technical training, in particular, relies on many precise repetitions. A training puck for off-ice sessions helps keep the hands active and allows players to continue refining skills such as tight stick handling, quick changes of direction, or controlled passes even when they aren't on the ice. This is particularly useful for youth players and those in club settings, where additional practice sessions take place in the garage, on the front yard, or in the gym.

A smooth surface is important so that the training puck rolls smoothly and in a controlled manner during stickhandling.
