The SID Smart Hockey Mini Training Ball in Yellow is a compact training ball for Smart Hockey. The mini version is particularly well-suited for technical drills in which a smaller ball places greater demands on clean ball control, dribbling, and passing. This fosters a direct, precise feel for the ball, especially in youth training and during drills involving many repetitions.

- Product Type: Hockey Training Ball
- Model: Smart Hockey Mini
- Applications: Technical training, passing, and ball control
- Training benefits: Small ball for precise stick handling and clean movements
- Color: yellow

In everyday training, a mini ball is particularly useful when the goal is to build a solid foundation or deliberately refine technical skills. Due to its smaller size, the ball requires precise stick control and smooth handling, which provides noticeable added value for young players, school hockey teams, or club training sessions. Coaches who design exercises specifically to improve coordination and reaction time also like to use smaller training balls in such drills.

Before using it, it's worth taking a quick look at the specific training format to ensure that the ball size and the group's skill level are a good match.
