The INTERHOCKEY COACHING FOLDER is designed for coaches and trainers who want to quickly document on-field or indoor drills and implement them directly during practice. The “two-way” format works well for sessions in which game situations are explained, adapted, and discussed immediately from multiple perspectives.

- Product Type: Coach's folder for hockey training and game organization
- Version: two-way
- Applications: Training, match preparation, and coaching from the sidelines
- Training benefits: Supports the clear visualization of running routes, positions, and set plays
- Usage: Quick visual communication during team meetings and brief breaks

Product information

Especially in day-to-day club life, it's often important to convey information visually without lengthy explanations. A coach's folder helps clearly illustrate formations, pressing routes, or free-kick variations. The two-way version is particularly appealing to coaches who want to flexibly sketch out different directions of play, transition moments, or build-up patterns in field hockey. This is just as helpful in youth development as it is for teams that regularly repeat and refine tactical sequences.

Coaches who frequently work with groups during practice or switch between indoor and outdoor fields will especially benefit from a clear, quick, and easy-to-understand visual presentation right on the field.
