Product information

- Target audience: Coaches, teams, schools, and clubs

A large board allows you not only to sketch individual situations but also to clearly lay out entire sequences. This is particularly helpful in team training when multiple formations, pressing variations, or substitution patterns need to be demonstrated simultaneously. Compared to smaller formats, the presentation remains clearer and is easier for a group to read, whether in the gym, in the locker room, or right around the bench.

Those who regularly work with larger groups benefit greatly from this format, as the content remains clearly visible even from a distance.
