In hockey, teamwear is often just as much a part of the game as the equipment itself. A hoodie like this one maintains a clean balance between sports and everyday life without looking out of place. The black design is easy to wear in a club setting, while the print clearly shows the connection to the team. This clear, practical design is especially important in the senior division, where clothing is frequently worn during training, on game days, or when traveling together.

For printed apparel, sizes should be carefully selected in advance, as returns and exchanges are not accepted.

Note

Printed textiles cannot be returned or exchanged.
