In hockey, even a small amount of moisture or a rapid temperature change is often enough to blur your vision. This is exactly where an anti-fog spray like this one comes in. It helps ensure a clearer view of the puck, teammates, and the game situation without unnecessarily complicating your equipment. Especially during regular club play, when helmet visors or sports glasses are used frequently, a care product like this is a sensible addition to your gear.

Before applying, it's recommended to briefly review the care instructions for the specific visor.
