Product information

In hockey, in particular, damp underwear, socks, or performance apparel often end up in your bag after a practice session. A separate laundry bag helps keep these items bundled together and makes managing your gear easier. The nylon material is well-suited for a rugged sports environment, while the rubber closure ensures easy handling. This is especially practical for club players, youth athletes, and teams when you need to head out quickly after practice and don't want individual items of clothing to end up loose in your bag.

The laundry bag is useful wherever sports clothing is regularly collected separately and taken home immediately after practice.
