Product information

The Fischer CT850 INT is a hockey stick designed for youth and junior players, for whom the precise balance of stick length, stiffness, and flex is crucial. In the INT version with a flex rating of 65, this model is designed for players who train regularly and are looking for a stick that handles both technically controlled play and quick shots. The right-handed blade orientation and 92 bend are well-suited for active puck control and direct playmaking.

- Product Type: Ice Hockey Stick
- Size: INT
- Hardness: 65
- Bend: 92
- Blade orientation: Right
- Color: black
- IntendedUse: Training and games for juniors

Especially during the transition from children's to adult equipment, a stick is needed that isn't too soft or too challenging. The INT size with a hardness of 65 falls within a range that provides a comfortable feel for many technically advanced junior players. In addition, the 92 bend is a very common shape in hockey that feels familiar when carrying the puck, passing, and taking quick shots. The black finish is understated and sporty.

The most important factors in selecting a stick are the right length, the correct blade orientation, and a stiffness that matches the player's weight and playing style.
