Especially in goal, it's important to have equipment that doesn't unnecessarily complicate your movements. A stick glove in the right size helps you handle the stick confidently and react with control in tight game situations. For young goalies in everyday club play, the INT size is often relevant when they've already outgrown the kids' sizes but haven't yet reached the full adult size. This model thus fits perfectly into a developmental phase where agility, feel for the stick, and a harmonious overall fit are particularly important.

The Groß size and the Regular cut—which matches the goalkeeper's preferred hand orientation in the net—are crucial factors in making a selection.
