SILOPAD Achilles/heel pads relieve pressure on an area that is often particularly sensitive in hockey due to tight skates, skating strides, and repeated pressure. Especially during regular training or longer sessions, this type of pad helps absorb the strain on the Achilles tendon and heel more comfortably.

- Product Type: Pads for the Achilles and heel area
 - Protection area: Achilles tendon and heel
 - Application: Inside the shoe at pressure and friction points
 - Fit: Available in two sizes
 - Size: SR S/M or SR L/XL

Product information

- Application: For targeted relief during daily activities, training, or games

In hockey, even a small pressure point can often determine whether a skate can be worn comfortably throughout an entire session. This is exactly where the SILOPAD Achilles/Heel Pad comes in: It provides additional cushioning in the sensitive rearfoot area and can help noticeably reduce friction and localized pressure. This is particularly beneficial for club players and ambitious recreational players who wear their skates regularly and don't want to make unnecessary compromises when it comes to fit.

For optimal results, the size should match your foot and the available space in the skate.
