Especially in regular hockey play, it's important that replacement parts can be clearly identified and fit existing equipment without any issues. A blade holder of the correct length and on the correct side ensures that the skate is properly reassembled after replacement. This is particularly helpful in youth and club settings, where equipment needs to be back in service quickly and unnecessary downtime must be avoided.

Before installation, it's worth taking a moment to check the Seiter, length, and compatibility with the existing skate.
