Especially for regular indoor use, the right wheel setup is crucial. A soft compound like XSoft promotes a grippy ride that remains noticeable during acceleration and tight maneuvers. This is particularly appealing for club players and ambitious young players who want to tailor their setup specifically for feel, control, and agility. The Gripper Millennium series has been a staple in roller hockey for years and is well-suited for players who don't choose their equipment at random but rather tailor it specifically to the playing surface and their own skating style.

When making a selection, in addition to hardness, the most important factor is choosing the right diameter for the chassis being used.
