Product information

- Target audience: Young skaters and beginners in smaller sizes

Whether you're skating around the park, on smooth surfaces, or tackling your first longer runs, it's especially important that your skates make you feel secure and move naturally with you. This is exactly where the ROCES RFG1 fits in: as a classic choice for young skaters or for anyone looking for a smaller size and wanting to get started without overly complicated technology. The white-and-blue design looks sporty and clean, without distracting from the essentials.

When it comes to inline skates, it's important to ensure there's enough support in the heel area and that the shoe size is correct so that the foot sits securely in the skate.
