In hockey, in particular, there's a need for clothing that remains practical during training without looking too technical. A bomber jacket like this pairs well with team uniforms, can be quickly slipped on before and after practice, and fits seamlessly into the club environment. For coaches or players who are regularly on the move between the rink, the locker room, and the trip home, a jacket like this is a clean and sporty addition to the rest of their gear.

To ensure the right fit, we recommend selecting your desired adult size based on your usual everyday fit or by referring to your team uniform.
