In hockey, in particular, there's a need for clothing that works seamlessly between the locker room, team trips, and casual practice sessions. These pants fit the bill perfectly: they're comfortable joggers for times when protective gear isn't required, but you still want to maintain a connection to the sport. The terry fabric ensures a soft, everyday feel—a quality often valued in club life. This makes the model particularly suitable for adults during regular training sessions and for teams looking to present a cohesive look off the field.

To help you choose, use the desired SR size in combination with your usual clothing size from S to XXXL.
