Polyester is a tried-and-true choice for indoor sports because the material is easy to care for and holds up well to regular use during training and games. Especially in a club setting, where clothing is washed frequently and used several times a week, this everyday practicality is what counts. The cut isn't specified in detail, so the focus here is primarily on its practical function as a team uniform: put it on, play, wash it, and it's ready again for the next session.

When choosing sizes, it's a good idea to coordinate briefly within the team to ensure the match uniforms are uniform.
