The FISCHER CT 950 JR is a lightweight junior hockey stick designed for young players who are looking for a direct feel for the puck and precise stick control during practice and games. As the top model in the CT series, this stick is designed to offer a perfect balance of light weight, stability, and crisp responsiveness.

Product information

- Product Type: Junior Ice Hockey Stick
- Series: Top model in the CT series
- Construction: Lightweight and sturdy
- Functionality: Higher torsional stiffness for greater accuracy
- Playing feel: Improved responsiveness with direct feedback
- Technology: Dual Foam Core Blade for a sensitive feel for the puck and faster puck release
- Curvature: 92
- Hardness: 50, left or right, color: black

A well-balanced stick really makes a difference, especially at the junior level: passes can be handled with control, the puck stays more stable on the blade, and shots are released quickly. The higher torsional stiffness supports precise control during fast-paced plays, while the blade construction provides a more refined feel for the puck. This is particularly well-suited for young club players who are developing their skills and want to rely on a dependable setup.

When selecting a stick, be sure to choose the correct blade orientation (left or right) and the junior model with a flex of 50.
