Product information

Color: black

Stick size: JR

The TRUE HZRDUS PX JR is a lightweight junior hockey stick designed for young players who want to release the puck quickly and generate a shot with minimal effort. With its low kick point, this model is clearly designed for ambitious junior players in their daily training and games who need a direct, responsive shooting feel.

- Technology: RESFLO for weight reduction while maintaining a consistent laminate construction
- Shooting performance: optimized low kick point for quick puck release
- Blade construction: Tri Rib Tech with a tailored rib arrangement at typical impact points
- Benefits: More stable blade for hard shots and one-timers
- Weight: approx. 345 g
- Curvature: TC2.5 or TC4
- Hardness: 20, 30, 40, or 50
- Model: JR, black, left- or right-handed

Especially at the junior level, a lightweight stick makes a noticeable difference on the ice: Your hands move more freely, the puck leaves the blade faster, and even repeated shots during practice require less effort. The combination of an ultralight construction, a responsive shaft, and a stable blade is particularly well-suited for young players who are developing their shooting skills and don't want any lag in feedback during direct shots and quick shots.

When selecting a stick, be sure to choose the appropriate stiffness, bend, and blade orientation based on the player's age, physical strength, and playing style.
