The CCM HTC TACKS 70 RED is an ice hockey helmet designed for beginners and recreational skaters who prioritize a comfortable fit and a reliable construction. Especially during your first few practices or casual sessions on the ice, a helmet that fits snugly on your head without much effort—while offering the right balance of comfort and a sense of protection—is a big help.

- System: two-layer foam lining
- Design: dense base foam with a soft upper foam layer

Product information

- Fit: The upper foam layer adapts better to the shape of the head
- Protection area: The foam liner works in conjunction with the helmet shell
- Ventilation: Airflow facilitated by the liner's design
- Intended use: ice hockey and recreational skating
- Color: red
- Size: XS, S, M, L

The shell's design is inspired by professional models, but what really matters for everyday use is the interior. The soft foam provides a more comfortable fit, while the denser base supports the padding's structure. The result is a helmet that's particularly well-suited for new players, young athletes in training, or occasional time on the ice. At the same time, the optimized design promotes air circulation without compromising the shell's sturdy overall feel.

For a snug fit, be sure to choose the right helmet size from XS to L.
