Especially with indoor hockey sticks, the right blade makes a noticeable difference in how the game feels. The curvature affects how ball control, dribbling, and technical moves feel, while the choice of left or right must match the player's usual stick side. For clubs, youth players, and players who train regularly, this blade is particularly appealing when a stick is to be reused for a specific purpose or customized to individual preferences.

It's important to find the right combination of blade orientation, curvature, and stick size.
