The combination of a slim wire frame and padded chin guard is well-suited for club players and youth players who use the cage regularly. On the ice, the unobtrusive design helps players keep an eye on the puck, teammates, and situations in front of the net without the cage dominating their field of vision. At the same time, the chin guard—featuring foam of varying densities—provides greater comfort where the face guard makes direct contact with the face.

For a snug fit, the selected size should match your existing helmet.
