CCM REF 14-inch shin guards are the obvious choice for everyday hockey when solid protection for the lower leg is needed during practice or a game. The designation "SG" stands for shin guards and clearly identifies this model as designed for field hockey. With its 14-inch length, this version is intended for players who need a length that matches their existing equipment and leg length.

- Product Type: Shin Guards for Hockey
- Model: CCM SG REF
- Size: 14 inches
- Protection area: Shin during training and games

Product information

- Intended use: Field player equipment

In hockey, in particular, shin guards make sense when you need a balance between mobility and protection. The 14-inch size helps ensure that your gear fits together seamlessly, such as with socks and other protective gear. For club players and regular training sessions, the right length is often more important than additional features, because the shin guard will only fit securely if its size matches the leg.

When making your selection, it's worth briefly comparing the shin guards to those you've worn before or considering the desired level of coverage on your lower leg.
