On the ice, it's crucial that the glove doesn't unnecessarily restrict stick movement while still providing the necessary level of protection during one-on-one battles or puck contact. The TRUE HG Catalyst 9X3 SR fits perfectly into this category. For players in everyday club play, this is particularly important when equipment needs to perform week after week without requiring constant attention during every practice session.

The available size range from 13 to 15 inches helps ensure the glove fits your hand size and provides the desired fit.
