The TACKLA GIRDLE TG BREEZER LIGHT ZONE is a hockey girdle designed for players looking for flexible and compact protective pants to wear under their outer pants. Especially during regular practice and games, it's important that the gear fits snugly against the body and doesn't unnecessarily restrict movement while skating, turning, or in one-on-one situations. In black, the model has a simple, classic look.

A girdle like this model appeals primarily to club players who carefully coordinate their gear and prefer a tighter, sport-oriented fit under their team pants. In everyday hockey play, this makes particular sense when players frequently accelerate, make tight turns, and use a lot of leg movement on the ice. Compared to classic-cut pants, the focus here is less on a voluminous fit and more on a snug, body-hugging fit.

When selecting a size, choose one that ensures the girdle sits securely and can be worn neatly under the appropriate outer pants.
