Especially during repetitive training sessions indoors, at the gym, or while running, a secure fit that doesn't cause unnecessary distraction is essential. The combination of compression, a soft underbust band, and stabilizing straps provides exactly that clarity of movement. For female players and athletes who regularly work on endurance and athleticism in addition to hockey, this model stays comfortably close to the body and supports smooth, controlled movement.

To ensure the right fit, it's best to choose your usual training size within the SR line.
